

LIFE PILES UP

JOEL BALDWIN

duration: c. 6 minutes

Wednesday, March 19th

Life piles up so fast that I have no time to write out the equally fast rising mound of reflections, which I always mark down as they rise to be inserted here. I meant to write about the Barnetts and the peculiar repulsiveness of those who dabble their fingers self approvingly in the stuff of others' souls. The Barnetts were at any rate plunged to the elbow; red handed if ever philanthropists were, which makes them good examples; and then, unquestioning and unspeculative as they were, they give themselves away almost to the undoing of my critical faculty. Is it chiefly intellectual snobbery that makes me dislike them? Is it snobbery to feel outraged when she says "Then I came close to the Great Gates"—or reflects that God = good, devil = evil. Has this coarseness of grain any necessary connection with labour for one's kind? And then the smug vigour of their self-satisfaction! Never a question as to the right of what they do—always a kind of insensate forging ahead until, naturally, their undertakings are all of colossal size and portentous prosperity. Moreover, could any woman of humour or insight quote such paeans to her own genius? Perhaps the root of it all lies in the adulation of the uneducated, and the easy mastery of the will over the poor. And more and more I come to loathe any dominion of one over another; any leadership, any imposition of the will. Finally, my literary taste is outraged by the smooth way in which the tale is made to unfold into fullblown success, like some profuse peony. But I only scratch the surface of what I feel about these two stout volumes.*

‘Life Piles Up’ takes its title from the diary entry of Virginia Woolf opposite. It is an attempt to take the shape of a short text and its textures (‘rising mound[s]’, ‘reflections’, etc.) and translate it into a musical text.

Boxed Notation: All boxed notation is ‘senza tempo’. The material in the box should be performed freely, repeating the material roughly at indicated intervals for the duration of the thick black line until the arrow cue. The above example ends at the staccato accent in the part below. If the cue appears in a non-adjacent part (not directly above or below in the score), the part name will be written in brackets for clarification.

Time/Pitch-Space Glissandi: The lighter stave represents a time-spaced section (the example above should last roughly 4.5 seconds from the start of D-sharp to the start of the high E) in which the pitch should slide roughly up or down according to the shape of the pattern (usually ‘rising mounds’) given. Some glissandi are more angular, but most should be performed as smoothly as possible.

Exaggerated Vibrato: The above symbol does not indicate a variation in pitch equal to its peaks and troughs on the stave, but simply means a wide, exaggerated vibrato for the duration of the note it follows.

All accidentals last for the duration of the measure in which they appear. All straight glissandi should be performed as evenly as possible within the given duration.
